Crowdfunding

- ~ (U) Of note, GiveSendGo is a Christian crowdfunding site that was involved in financing for the January 6th insurrection at the US Capitol. Similar to the first campaign, this crowdfunding campaign included donations from anonymous donors, and no identity verification for the public-facing names of donors.
- ~ (U) As well, at least two Bitcoin fundraisers have been established for the protest and organizers have solicited direct donations through EMTs to the address, which is likely a source of funds for the protest.
- ~ (U) As well, limited funds have been raised in the form of non-fungible tokens (NFTs), listed on a blockchain explorer with the label “#FREEDOMCONVOY22”. These newly minted NFTs are being sold for up to 0.1 Ether coins at a time, or $399.15 CAD.

Reporting to FINTRAC

- ~ (Prot. B) Reporting entities (e.g., bank, virtual currency exchanges, money services businesses) must submit a Suspicious Transaction Report to FINTRAC in respect of a financial transaction that occurs or is attempted, and for which there are reasonable grounds to suspect that the transaction is related to the commission or attempted commission of a money laundering or terrorist activity financing offence. These have no monetary threshold. To date, Suspicious Transaction Reporting related to the convoy and its protests has been limited and informed by adverse media reporting.

Crowdfunding Non-Profit Organization

- ~ (U) Since the suspension of the initial GoFundMe crowdfunding campaign, the organizers of the Freedom Convoy have established a separate GiveSendGo campaign. As per the GiveSendGo campaign, the funds raised were to be dispersed to a registered not-for-profit corporation, Freedom 2022 Human Rights and Freedoms.
- ~ (U) The purpose of the not-for-profit corporation, as listed in its articles of incorporation, is: Advocacy against government, agents of government and any other organization person or individuals' actions, laws, policies and practices that violate human rights and freedoms paying special attention to creation of class systems through mandates, social credit systems (rewards and punishments for government compliance), passport systems and more.

Does this make sense ?

- Our understanding of the financial flows in support of FC 22 is limited. We do not have the data to determine the precise amounts, nor the exact origin, of foreign sources of funding. According to unverified information leaked from crowdfunding site Give Send Go, a number of individuals (almost 56%) from the USA are providing some financial support to the FC 22.
- At the aggregate level, we believe that most financial transactions are small amounts. FINTRAC has not reported any suspicious transactions reports related to external sources of financing.

Good morning,

We certainly can. Will come back to you later today with a bit of a summary of what we're seeing on the financing side through the OSINT. Our own reporting received from reporting entities is, to my knowledge, limited—likely a factor of the requirement that reporting entities meet a reasonable grounds to suspect that a transaction relates to a money laundering or terrorist activity financing offence as well as any lag in reporting. We'll try to have a line or two on that as well.

Morning colleagues,

Hope you are well...

IAS has been tasked to provide analytical support (still TBC) to some of the work related to the demonstrations. At this stage, I'm trying to baseline who is doing what... and what info is being fed to the GOC...

As such, I'd be grateful if could copy me on any material – class or unclass – you end up producing.

At the aggregate level, is there anything helpful you can tell about financing ?

Cheers & please let me know if you have any questions.
